

Desert Range

Introduction:

Desert Range is a highly entertaining game with novice training and competition between skilled players. The player acts a new soldier on the battlefield and accepts shooting training at the training base in the desert. Precision shooting and vigorous walk are necessary conditions for survival on the battlefield!

Details:

Desert Range was originally the base of insurgents. After the baptism of fierce war, all buildings turned to a part of the desert, only some useless scrap metals were left. However, discerning eyes can tell greatness from mediocrity. The head coach- Doug Captain takes over this place. Desert! Desolation! Hotness! Here is an excellent training place and the hell of rookie. Only soldiers coming from this place dare to boast themselves to be the king of gun. "Hi, rookies! Welcome to Desert Range!"—Doug Captain

Instructions:

At the beginning of the game, the player will see two targets which are options [novice mode] (current game mode) and [start game] respectively.

By turning left, the player can see a brief introduction of the novice mode and competition mode.

Shoot [current [novice mode]] to switch between novice mode and competition mode

After shooting the [start game], options [desert range] and [return to menu] appear.

Shoot [Desert Range] to enter the game

After entering the game, by turning left, the player can see a basic introduction of the game; by turning right, the player can see the operation method of weapons.

Reload instructions

In novice mode, the gun will be reloaded when all bullets are shot out.

In completion mode, however, after all bullets are shot out, the magazine needs to be changed manually: press the trackpad to open the magazine in which all bullets are shot out, then the other controller presents another magazine. Place this magazine over the magazine of the gun, now the gun is reloaded automatically.
